

Directions: Underline subjects once, predicates twice. Circle subordinating conjunctions, and box coordinating conjunctions. Bracket each clause as independent or dependent. Identify sentence type (S, C, Cx, CCx). Rewrite each sentence as different type.

Although you worked and he helped, the job is unfinished.

She will arrive eventually; we shall wait patiently, meanwhile.

I held the ladder while he was standing on it.

George is swimming, Bill is playing tennis, and Jack is sleeping.

At the end of the day, he was tired, for he had worked for twelve hours.

Jack wants to succeed, yet until he is willing to work, he will not achieve his goal.

He was quick; however, the snake was quicker.

She left the university because she disliked attending classes and writing essays.

We shall vote for him even though we oppose some of his politics.

After they completed the race, John wanted to take a nap, and Sue wanted to eat pizza.